

FROM THE EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

We are delivering another issue of our journal to our readers. This time, we have focused on “hot” topics from the area of criminal law. We hope that you will find the setting of these topics in e.g. the context of ethics, which is surely their common element, interesting.

Apart from that, we are continuing our discussion on higher education and law studies. The previous volume caused quite a stir in the environment, which we find very exciting. Therefore, we are planning to have an open discussion meeting at Kozminski University, themed around selected topics from issue 2/ 2018 (the exact date will be announced on KU’s website: www.kozminski.pl). You are most welcome to take part in the meeting.

This issue features also interesting content devoted to other topics, including a continuation of the “space” thread (cf. issue 1/2018). We also have a review of a good book. The electronic bilingual version is the original version. I hope you enjoy this issue.

We are open to new submissions. Let me remind you that 20 January 2019 is the deadline for quality “constitutional” writing (more: introduction to issue 2/ 2018).
